Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment received on February 17, 2005, in which claim 17 was amended has been fully considered and entered, but the arguments are not deemed to be persuasive.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Greenfield et al. (US Patent no. 5,760,836) for the same reasons as previously set forth in the last office action mailed on November 17, 2004.

Regarding the above claims, the applicant argues that Greenfield describe a process for preventing overruns by altering the bit rate being encoded. And this is not the same as a process that is executed after an overrun occurs. The examiner respectfully disagrees because not only Greenfield prevents the overrun by also determines whether an overrun has occurred in col. 5, lines 66-67. In fact, in col. 5, lines 66-67 Greenfield states that "if an overrun does occur...". In other words, there are cases where a process is executed after an overrun occurs. Greenfield further monitors every macroblock to prevent, however, overrun is being determined and the severity of the overrun is defined in the relation shown in col. 6, lines 4-17.

The applicant further argues that claim 1 uses a catch-up mode to process the overrun. To the examiner the claim is claim is broad enough that any reasonable interpretation of the prior art can be used to show the catch-up mode. The step to reset the FIFO can be considered as a catch-up mode since such step is performed in case of an overrun (See Greenfield col. 5, lines 66-67).

The applicant made several arguments to emphasize on the "determining the overrun and applying the catch-up mode to process the overrun". While the examiner appreciates the emphasis added, the response to the arguments repetition is avoided. It is the examiner's belief that the claims as written are broad enough that a spectrum of prior art can be used to show the limitations of claims 1-20.

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
